CASE AGAINST R. R. MOTORMAN IS DISMISSED

Damage to Relief Fire Apparatus Not Criminal Carelessness

MANY WITNESSES

Case Heard in Special Session of Police Court Last Night—Settlement for Damages Not Mentioned

At a special session of police court last night Justice Snow dismissed the complaint against C. Acres, motorman of the Washington-Virginia train which on Friday morning struck the truck of the Relief Truck and Engine Company, badly damaging the truck and slightly injuring the driver, Arthur F. Skillman. Acres was charged with recklessly driving the electric car.

A number of witnesses were examined, members of the fire company and employees of the railway, and while the evidence was conflicting to some extent, Justice Snow failed to find that there was any criminal negligence.

Arthur F. Skillman, driver of the truck, testified that it was customary to clean the engine house on Friday, and that acting under instructions of C. E. Davis, who was in charge of the engine house, he drove the first truck slowly out of the house and stopped directly across the street, with the front wheels of the truck about three inches from the south rail of the track. He stated that after the truck had stopped he looked around and saw car No. 31, of the Washington-Virginia Railway, about 18 or 20 feet away, coming toward him on Prince street; that the electric car struck the truck and showed it along the track, moving it a distance which was afterwards measured and found to be 9 feet 6 inches, and that he, Skillman, was thrown between the emergency brake and the side of the car. Skillman testified that the motorman of the car stated that he could not stop the car; that his brakes did not work Skillman, G. L. Langley, C. M. Robey and C. E. Davis all testified that they did not hear any warning gong or bell rung.

C. Acres, the motorman of the electric car, testified that he started from Royal street just around the corner from Prince at 9:15 a. m., that when he rounded the corner into Prince street he saw the fire truck standing across the tracks; that he threw on his emergency brake, and that his car slid along the rails, with the brakes locked, and struck the fire truck; that the rails were wet, and that he did everything in his power to stop his car before striking the truck. He testified that his brakes were in good condition, and that he was ringing his gong as he came around the corner, and before striking the truck. He testified his car was running at the rate of about 4 miles per hour when he first saw the truck, which was then about 20 feet away. That his train consisted of a motor car and a trailer, which made it harder to stop than a single car.

F. M. Edwards, conductor of the electric car, testified substantially the same as Mr. Acres.

D. A Shum, master mechanic of the Washington-Virginia Railway, testified that about noon Saturday he received instructions to test the brakes of motor No. 31, the car in question; that he tested them by running the car at a speed of 25 miles an hour, and stopped within 90 feet, which he stated demonstrated that the brakes were in perfect condition. He stated that the car had been in the barn, and that no work had been done on the brakes, and that he was positive that they were working properly.

Attorney Gardner L. Boothe represented the railway company at the hearing; Attorney H. Noel Garner appeared for the city council, and Attorney Frank Stuart represented Arthur Skillman

The matter of responsibility for damage to the fire truck was not brought up in police court, and no statement was made as to future adjustment.

BARGAINS READY

Promising to surpass all former Dollar Days, the merchants are ready for the big bargain event which takes place tomorrow. Incidentally the shopping public is ready. They have been looking forward to this sale for some time past.

With the prices of practically everything coming down the purchasing power of a dollar tomorrow will be demonstrated to be far greater than any recent Dollar Day sale in the history of Alexandria.

The windows of practically every merchant in the city participating gives old only, a partial view of the bargain feast prepared. In order to encourage shopping at home the merchants have slashed prices right and left and they are prepared to test whether or not the shopping public wants real bargains. Hundreds of the articles which will be sold tomorrow for a dollar will be suitable Christmas gifts and the shoppers can not well afford to miss this treat. There is not a store in the city that will not have its full quota of bargains. It, therefore, will pay the shopping public to visit all of the stores participating in this great sale.

PEACE WITH GERMANY IS PROCLAIMED

President Issues Proclamation Terminating State of War With the Hun

EFFECTIVE JULY 2.

Austria-Hungary Next, After Which War Laws Will Cease to be Effective

Washington, Nov. 15.—Peace between the United States and Germany formally was proclaimed today by President Harding.

The President in a proclamation signed at 3:52 p. m., declared the state of war between the United States and Germany, existing from April 6, 1917, to have terminated in fact July 2, 1921, when the joint peace resolution of Congress was approved by the Executive.

Issuance of the proclamation, which followed exchange of ratifications of the Treaty of Berlin, effected Armistice Day, in the German capital was considered the first of a series of three steps, which, when completed, will return the United States to a complete peace status.

The second step probably will be the promulgation of proclamation declaring war with Austria to have ended and the third the issuance of a similar proclamation with respect to Hungary. The proclamaiton dealing with Austria is expected to be signed by the President and issued through the State Department with in a few days, as ratifications of the treaty between the United States and Austria were exchangd at Vienna last Tuesday. Ratifications between the United States and Hungary are expected to be exchanged soon and the proclamation issued soon afterward.

Until the third and final step is taken the purpose of the formal proclamations will not be achieved, in the opinion of officials. The purposes are stated to be to put to an end without doubt to certain war laws unaffected by the Congressional resolutions of repeal approved last March 3. Notable among these wartime laws are sections of the Espionage act, the Liberty Bond act and Trading with the Enemy Act. Portions of the last-named statute are preserved, however, through the treaty.

Disposition of the cases of Eugene V. Debs and others convicted of violation of war laws likewise will await the third and final step. Attorney-General Daugherty has prepared an opinion for the President suggesting a method of disposing of the Debs case and, it is understood, proposing definite treatment of the case of others convicted of similar of fenses. This opinion, however, has not yet been presented to the President and Mr. Daugherty has indicated that there may be last minute changes before its submission.

The proclamation issued today has no bearing on the resumption of diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany. State Department officials asserting that the exchange of ratifications in itself restored such diplomatic relations. Just when Germany will resume her old diplomatic status in Washington is not known to officials here, but it is expected that Baron Edmund Thermann, former counselor of the German Legation at Budapest, will arrive in Washington shortly to arrange for a technical instalation of a German Embassy.

JOHNSON HELD FOR DEATH OF ELMER FERRIS

Coroner's Jury Makes Probe of Shooting of Colored Man

PISTOL EXHIBITED

Was Shot in Abdomen October 28 and Died at Alexandria Hospital November 10.

A coroner's jury summoned by Dr. T. M. Jones which met last night at Demaine's mortuary chapel to investigate the death of Elmer Ferris, colored, gave a verdict to the effect that he came to his death from the effects of a gunshot wound inflicted by Walter Johnson, colored, on October 28 and died at the Alexandria Hospital November 10 at 6:50 p. m.

The jury was composed of John H. Trimyer, foreman; F. B. Howard, E. Tanner Mathew, H. B. Richards, C. H. Brown and H. Melvin Devers.

Ferris is the second man to succumb from bullet wounds alleged to have been inflicted by Walter Johnson. The first was his brother, Charles Ferris, who died November 4. Both men were shot in the abdomen. A brother of the prisoner also was shot at the same time. His injuries, however, were not so serious, he being shot in the leg.

At the inquest Johnson was present. The state was represented by Commonwalth's Attorney Howard W. Smith and Attorney Charles Henry Smith appeared for the accused.

Clara Prather, colored, told the jury she was in the house at the time and was attracted by three shots and came to her door and saw Johnson running down Pitt street. Witness, however, did not witness the shooting.

Policeman Haywood Durrer told the jury a short time after the shooting he saw the the men shot and they told him they were shot by Walter Johnson. According to Dr. Llewellyn Powells death undoubtedly was due to gunshot wound of the abdomen.

Rose Jackson, colored identified the prisoner as the man who did the shooting. Prior to the shooting she heard a woman cry, "Don't shoot."

James Clark testified that when he saw the shooting he ran into the silk mill on the west side of Pitt between Wilkes and Gibbon streets, and telephoned the police. Witness testified he saw Walter Johnson shoot at a man, and he added the man was throwing rocks.

N. O. Fitzgerald said he heard two shots and he saw the prisoner fire two or three times.

The pistol with which the shooting is alleged to have been done was exhibited to the jury by Chief of Police Goods. It was taken off Johnson the chief said by Policeman Bell after Johnson was searched at police headMquarters and was loaded. The men who were shot he said told him that Johnson did the shooting. According to Chief Goods Johnson stole the pistol from a colored man the day before the shooting and also stole a fountain pen and a small amount of cash.

Policeman Magner testified that one of the Ferris brothers immediately after the shooting told him that all three were shot by Walter Johnson.

Policeman Lawrence Padgett testified that he and Policeman Carlton A. Padgett arrested Walter Johnson at the south end of Hunting Creek bridge. At first the prisoner denied the shooting he said but on his return to police headquarters admitted it.

Dr. Powell To Be Married Thursday

Dr. Llewellyn Powell left today for Shepherdstown, W. Va., where he will be married Thursday to Miss Willie Pierce Boone. The bride-elect is a graduate nurse of the Alexandria Hospital. After the wedding trip the couple will leave for Florida where they will send their honeymoon. They will return to Alexandria about December 1.

Y. M. C. A. Opportunities

Shall Alexandria have a fully equipped and adequately housed Y. M. C. A.? That is the question which will be discussed at the conference which the executive committee of the "Y" has called for this Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce, and upon which every citizen of Alexandria who is interested in the city's development and improvement, and who has the welfare of its men and youth at heart should come and express himself.

Less than two years ago the Alexandria Y. M. C. A. was organized and since that time has been inaugurating a work along distinctly community lines. While up to this time many real needs of the community have been met and genuine service rendered, particularly to the boys of the city, the board of directors has confidently looked forward to the day when Alexandria might have a fully equipped Y. M. C. A. building with a much needed gymnasium, swimming pool and other recreational facilities. Would it not be a matter of pride if we might see in a prominent location in our town a building reared for the purpose of serving the men and boys of the city, which might give notice to those who pass this way that Alexandria is no longer behind other cities of its size in this respect and which might stand as a monument of this generation's interest in the welfare of the men and boys who are to stand at the head of the city's affairs in the future. As some one has so aptly said if the men of today do their duty by the boys of today, it goes without saying that those same boys will carry on the work for the next generation.

Many prominent Alexandrians who have the city's welfare deeply at heart will be present at this meeting and have been asked to speak. Every man, young and old, who is interested in the Y. M. C. A. as it now exists or as it might be developed in the community, is urged to attend this meeting. No one will be asked to contribute or to pledge a contribution at this time, but each one present will be asked to do three things,—to listen to a brief statement of what the Y. M. C. A. has accomplished since its organization, to hear a discussion of what might be accomplished in the years to come, and to give others the benefit of their own opinion on the subject.

Every day fresh testimony of the value of the "Y" work in Alexandria is being heard. One of the visiting nurses of the city said recently: "If only people realized more just what all this work is meaning in the homes which I am constantly visiting. It is showing more and more all the time. The fathers and mothers are talking about it and the boys and girls are enthusiastic over the new opportunities which have come into their lives. It certainly is beginning to tell. Every one should back this work, for it is without doubt the most worth while that has ever been attempted in Alexandria."

Mrs. Olive Jones Whitmer, who until recently was working in Alexandria under the Interdepartmental Bureau of Social Hygiene and who, it is safe to say, knows the moral conditions of our young people better than any one else, said in speaking of the "Y" work: "This is the kind of work which should be pushed and encouraged in a community. It is far better to support organizations which do such valuable preventive work and which keep our boys and girls from going wrong than to get them right again after they have gone wrong. Do everything possible to keep it going."

Members of the Chamber of Commerce, city council, school board,—and all others to whom the affairs of the city's management are entrusted should feel it a duty to attend this conference and give full, free and frank expression to their opinions of the value of the Y. M. C. A. in this community and its future usefulness in the community.

Woman's Auxiliary to American Legion

The Woman's Auxiliary to the American Legion held a meeting last night in the Chamber of Commerce and discussed plans for the winter's work. The auxiliary will resume the relief work among ex-service men which was carried on last winter and requests all persons coming in contact wit hany needing assistance to refer them to Mrs. C. M. Shepperson, president of the auxiliary, or to Mrs. T. C. Howard, vice president, who will immediately handle any appeals. During the past winter the women relieved a number of cases of men out of work particularly with families, and the work of the auxiliary this coming winter will be to raise funds to continue helping ex-service men who are out of employment.

The poppy sale last May was such a success that it was decided to hold another next year and at each meeting this winter the work of making poppies will be the principal business, all members are urged to attend meetings and assist in this work to be prepared for the spring sale. Meetings will be held twice a month and will be in the nature of a social gathering while making poppies and the present plan is to have a committee arrange for some light refreshments to be served at these meetings.

The next meeting will be held November 28, at the Chamber of Commerce and a full attendance is urgently requested.

EXPECT JAPAN WILL ACCEPT PROGRAM

Announcement Probably Will be Made When British Approve Proposals

LONDON IS READY

Reported That English Will Urge the Giving up of all Submarines As One of First Steps

Washington, Nov. 15.—It is now expected that Mr. Balfour speaking for the British Government at the Disarmament Conference tomorrow, will formally accept, in principle, the American naval limitation program.

It is also expected that immediately afterward Prince Tokugawa, head of the Japanese mission, will give formal notice that his country likewise accepts the program in the main.

That the British, after 48 hours' study of the Hughes plan of action, would approve it in its broader phases was semi-officially announced today. Only a few hours later it was clearly intimated in Japanese circles that the Oriental power would not be far behind Great Britain in expressing their acquiescence in the American program.

Neither delegation will swallow the Hughes proposal whole and neither has been expected to do so by the Americans. It has been well understood that Great Britain and Japan would have counter-proposals to make with respect to certain details of the limitation program. This Government will welcome suggestions that come from either of the other naval powers so long as those suggestions do not involve any radical change in the direction of more instead of less armament.

Nor is there any reason tonight for believing that either the British or the Japanese will ask for modifications of the Hughes program in the interest of greater naval strength for any of the three powers than that allowed under the American plan of action.

On the contrary, there are somewhat vague but none the less persistent reports in Washington tonight that the British, if not tomorrow, then later will propose the scrapping of the whole business of building or maintaining submarines. At the moment there is no official authority for these reports, but it would not be surprising to those most intimately associated with the Conference to find the British going even further in the direction of reducing armament than America has gone.

Upon the question of limitation, it can be stated, there appeared to be little or no difference of opinion on the part of the three great naval powers. The British appear to be entirely willing to abandon further construction, just as are the Americans. The abandonment of construction of armament for the ten years is literal limitation of armament so far as sea power is concerned. If there develops differences of opinion, respecting Great Britain and the United States particularly, those differences probably will center about the reduction of existing naval armament, not limitation on a basis of tonnage now afloat. Surprising as it may seem, all reports are to the general effect that the British are more inclined at the moment to reduce their naval power than are the Americans.

It was learned in official quarters today that the British delegation reached Washington with a carefully prepared plan for limitation for the leading fleets of the world. This program was to have been presented at an executive session of the Conference and at a time when Japan would be expected to present their plans. Secretary Hughes at the opening session of the Conference upset the British plan of procedure, however, by laying the American cards on the table while all the world looked on. The British plan now is to approve in principle the American plan, doing it publicly, then to submit their program in the form of a counter-suggestion to be considered first by the naval armament committee of the Conference and afterward by the Conference as a whole.

It is now confidently expected that the Japanese, as already stated, will follow the British in accepting broadly what the Americans have proposed then offer their own suggestions as to the best means of arriving at the naval parity toward which America is moving.

It is not too much to say that the Japanese are perhaps more than satisfied with the relative naval strength which they would enjoy under the Hughes program. From the very day of their arrival Japanese spokesmen have made it clear that they desire a fleet in the future at least half as

DOLLAR DAY TOMORROW

Tomorrow is Dollar Day in Alexandria, an institution that has passed from the experimental stage and is now enrolled among the permanent attractions of the metropolis of Northern Virginia.

If any one has any doubt as to the ability of our home merchants to compete with other cities in the display of wares and merchandise, as well as the corresponding prices, we suggest that they disabuse themselves of an erroneous idea.

It is their pride, and we believe it entirely justifiable, that they are able to compete with any city in the United States, and they display a most commendable spirit in challenging comparison. The latter is the real proof of the pudding, and to shrink from this would be a confession of weakness and inferiority. We are glad that as a rule the majority of our enterprising merchants invite a scrupulous collation of both goods and prices.

With today's weather continuing into tomorrow, the day ought to be a banner day of sales.

The only suggestion we might make, is, that the event should have been more conspicuously announced in the Gazette, in order that our hundreds of readers in the rural sections might make timely plans for coming to the city. However, we trust this editorial notice will have the desired effect.

OUR HIGH SCHOOL

We are glad to correct the statement given our reporter on Saturday last, as to the admission of Alexandria High School graduates to the University of Virginia. We publish else where in today's Gazette, a letter from the Virginia Committee of the Commission on Accredited Schools of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern States.

The letter is entirely voluntary, and was written before our reporter published his information, as will be seen. It states that the Alexandria High School has met the requirements of the Commission and is recommended, to be continued on the accredited list.

Y. M. C. A. MEETING

There is to be a meeting in the interests of the Y. M. C. A. of Alexandria next Thursday night, 17th. inst. An announcement appearing in today's columns explains the objects of the meeting.

We think it little short of disgraceful that Alexandria is so poorly equipped for the proper functioning of this most admirable institution. It indicates a lack of public spirit that should shock any community of the size of Alexandria, and arouse every man and woman to a realization of the fact that they cannot escape their own responsibility, however little or however great. There is no one who cannot contribute his quota to this world-wide movement for the betterment of mankind. Non-sectarian, endowed with the noblest purpose, with an irreproachable record of many years, the good that it has done, and is doing today, should be inscribed in letters of gold. All personal jealousies, all narrow prejudice, all unworthy sectarianism, all ignoble bias, should be swept aside, and one thought alone, be uppermost: it is doing the work of the Master, and were He on earth it would have His blessing.

Attend this meeting next Thursday night. Your presence will cheer those who bear the burdens. Not to give your support and sympathy is to shirk your plain duty to the young men of Alexandria. They are entitled to, and should have, all those appliances and incentives to an upright and manly life that other cities afford cheerfully and without urge. Your own home-city is shamefully derelict in these matters. It has become a by-word in the mouths of its own people. See to it that this reproach does not attach to you. Join those of your fellow-citizens who nobly sustain the Young Men's Christian Association in Alexandria, and help to wipe out a stigma that does her such gross injustice!

How To Get Relief From Rheumatism

Scientists Agree That the Cause Is Due to Waste Products In the Blood.

The blood is the means by which all tissues, muscles, ligaments and flesh of the body are directly or indirectly nourished. It is also thru the blood stream that worn-out tissues and waste products are cast out of the system.

When waste products accumulate, they are a menace to life. They cause a lowered vitality, many skin disorders and rheumatism. Genuine relief from the agonies of rheumatism can be had only by correcting the basic trouble—waste products.

Thousands and thousands of men and woman during the past 50 years have cleared their blood of waste products with S. S. S. It is the ideal remedy for rheumatism, because it removes the poisonous waste matter which is causing the trouble. There are no bad after effects and the result is wonderful. Begin taking S. S. S. today and write for 56 page illustrated booklet, "Facts About the Blood"—free.

Food---Meat for Rejoicing

IN the middle ages cooking became a fad of the great. Nobles competed in inventing new recipes and unique utensils. One triumph was a roasting spit so constructed that it played popular tunes as it revolved! Expert skill goes into the roasting of meats here, but it is the browned perfection of the meat that engages first consideration. Wallis cooking is free from faddish fancies, but boasts variety and deliciousness at prices that induce satisfaction.

APPOINTED CHAIRMAN

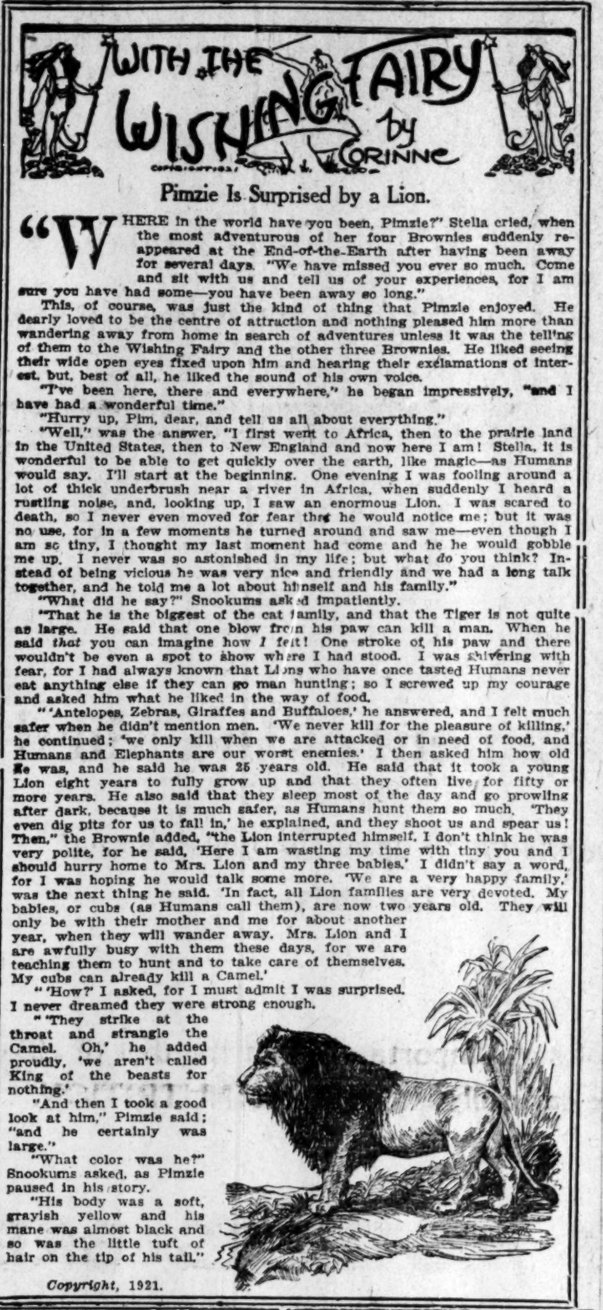
Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 15.—The acceptance of the appointment as roll call chairman for Alexandria of Miss Mary Lindsey has been received at headquarters of the Southern division of the American Red Cross. Miss Lindsey will immediateley begin active work of organization to make the roll call the most far-reaching in the history of Alexandria.

Increased and extended activities of the Red Cross make this appointment one of tremendous importance this year.

Activities of the Red Cross are so extensively enlarged that a maximum membership must be obtained in order that the growing demands made on the organization may be met.

The work of the Red Cross for disabled veterans of the world war and members of their families has reached absolutely staggering proportions. The numbers of soldiers in hospitals under government care has grown from 3,300 in 1919 to 26,000 in 1921 and the new year is expected to see this number increased in even greater proportion.

The work that the Red Cross has undertaken in connection with the ex-soldier is to furnish the connecting link between the veteran and his family that needs aid on the one hand and the government that is glad to furnish this aid on the other. The Red Cross has realized that there must be a humanizing element connecting the man and the compensation or hospital treatment furnished by the bureaus at Washington



Pimzie Is Surprised by a Lion.

"WHERE in the world have you been, Pimzie?" Stella cried, when the most adventurous of her four Brownies suddenly reappeared at the End-of-the-Earth after having been away for several days. "We have missed you ever so much. Come and sit with us and tell us of your experiences, for I am sure you have had some—you have been away so long."

This, of course, was just the kind of thing that Pimzie enjoyed. He dearly loved to be the centre of attraction and nothing pleased him more than wandering away from home in search of adventures unless it was the telling of them to the Wishing Fairy and the other three Brownies. He liked seeing their wide open eyes fixed upon him and hearing their exclamations of interest, but, best of all, he liked the sound of his own voice.

"I've been here, there and everywhere," he began impressively, "and I have had a wonderful time."

"Hurry up, Pim, dear, and tell us all about everything."

"Well," was the answer, "I first went to Africa, then to the prairie land in the United States, then to New England and now here I am! Stella, it is wonderful to be able to get quickly over the earth, like magic—as Humans would say. I'll start at the beginning. One evening I was fooling around a lot of thick underbrush near a river in Africa, when suddenly I heard a rustling noise, and, looking up, I saw an enormous Lion. I was scared to death, so I never even moved for fear that he would notice me; but it was no use, for in a few moments he turned around and saw me—even though I am so tiny, I thought my last moment had come and he he would gobble me up. I never was so astonished in my life; but what do you think? Instead of being vicious he was very nice and friendly and we had a long talk together, and he told me a lot about himself and his family."

"What did he say?" Snookums asked impatiently.

"That he is the biggest of the cat family, and that the Tiger is not quite as large. He said that one blow from his paw can kill a man. When he said that you can imagine how I felt! One stroke of his paw and there wouldn't be even a spot to show where I had stood. I was shivering with fear, for I had always known that Lions who have once tasted Humans never eat anything else if they can go man hunting; so I screwed up my courage and asked him what he liked in the way of food.

"'Antelopes, Zebras, Giraffes and Buffaloes,' he answered, and I felt much safer when he didn't mention men. 'We never kill for the pleasure of killing,' he continued; 'we only kill when we are attacked or in need of food, and Humans and Elephants are our worst enemies.' I then asked him how old he was, and he said he was 25 years old. He said that it took a young Lion eight years to fully grow up and that they often live for fifty or more years. He also said that they sleep most of the day and go prowling after dark, because it is much safer, as Humans hunt them so much. 'They even dig pits for us to fall in,' he explained, and they shoot us and spear us! Then," the Brownie added, "the Lion interrupted himself, I don't think he was very polite, for he said, 'Here I am wasting my time with tiny you and I should hurry home to Mrs. Lion and my three babies.' I didn't say a word, for I was hoping he would talk some more. 'We are a very happy family,' was the next thing he said. 'In fact, all Lion families are very devoted. My babies, or cubs (as Humans call them), are now two years old. They will only be with their mother and me for about another year, when they will wander away. Mrs. Lion and I are awfully busy with them these days, for we are teaching them to hunt and to take care of themselves. My cubs can already kill a Camel.'

"'How?' I asked, for I must admit I was surprised. I never dreamed they were strong enough.

"'They strike at the throat and strangle the Camel. Oh,' he added proudly, 'we aren't called King of the beasts for nothing.'

"And then I took a good look at him," Pimzie said; "and he certainly was large."

"What color was he?" Snookums asked, as Pimzie paused in his story.

"His body was a soft, grayish yellow and his mane was almost black and so was the little tuft of hair on the tip of his tail."

SATURDAY, NOV. 13, 1813.

From the London Pilot of Aug 11.

When intelligence of the commencement of hostilities between Great Britain and America reached Canton, there were lying in the river thirteen merchantmen belonging to subjects of the United States, but owing to a general impression, that as the ostensible cause of the war had been removed on our part, an immediate peace would be the consequence, the ships were not taken off, but only detained until instructions should be received from England. The ships and cargoes, which are of great value, will now, no doubt be seized and confiscated.

The Duty Of All Americans

(Communicated)

Today we stand before the world as the advocate of the limitation of armament, that we as a nation are sincere in our ambitions and aims is not to be doubted by all who at heart are full fledged Americans. Our duty is plain, we must perform that duty not alone for America, but for the world at large. The boldness of Secretary Hughes in stating the question of armament and its limitation cannot be passed or pushed aside, but must stand out both forcibly and prominently before the conference now in session as a concrete program. the adaptability of which is before the world powers.

Americas object cannot be questioned or doubted at, it is not only a cessation of naval building but a reduction of expenses and relief to the already over-taxed nations now in conference, but will be the means of developing commerce in all parts of the world, creating relations of commerce and bringing all nations into a closer relationship and understanding, that will show the real feasibility of the limitation of armament. How can the duty of Americans be performed, by supporting to the last man and woman the President and the delegates appointed by him, in supporting them, by all of the political parties, laying aside all plans for campaign ammunition and putting America first, not letting political life or its compensation enter into the question at all.

It calls for patriotism and duty to America first to the world and humanity at large, that the repetition of the world war in all its honor, courage and suffering may be a calamity that may never befall the world again. America can but show the way, let us back up the conference by a united support, casting aside all political party lines and be Americans first and last, letting political affairs became secondary of a party nature.

Let us show the world that we cannot only do our duty for the salvation of humanity in war, but that we can in peace do a greater duty to humanity, by doing that which we are now bringing before the world powers now represented by their choosen representatives in Washington.

This should not be looked upon from only the political or commercial standpoint, but should be viewed from that of a closer relationship of religious and social standpoint as well.

Thi s is just as important as the purpose of the conference, the limitation of armament, why because it will create an understanding among the nations that are all vitally conceived in the outcome of this conference, of thorough understanding and confidence which go a long way to dimish the distrust and doubts that now exist as to the sincerity of the aims and purposes that now exist among the nations of the world at large.

We come before the world with a spirit of good will and amity, that cannot be doubted, for we have stated our program, it means sacrificing hundreds of millions of dollars, but if an agreement can be had among the nations assembled in conference, America will have performed as great if not greater duty to civilization and the world, by being the means of bringing the world, its nations to an understanding, that will rebound to the high and noble object of America as a nation, the United States. We have taken the lead, let us rally as one, support the President and the men he has chosen, let us lead the world, its nations into a higher order of citizenship, confidence and understanding, that in the end will be founded upon justice and right to all and special favor to none.

This will bring a closer understanding and confidence that will add another page to American history, which not even time can diminish its lustre, but will go down in the annals of history as one of the brightest and most cherished of all, for it will have but shown that America is ever ready to do her duty in the name of humanity and for the sake and salvation of the world, its nations and mankind at large. As a nation we cannot fail, if we do our duty as a nation.

State Board of Education

November 10, 1921.

Mr. Richard C. Haydon, Principal,
Alexandria High School,
Alexandria, Va.

My dear Mr. Haydon:

The Virginia Committee of the commission on Accredited Schools of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of Southern States met at Charlottesville on November 4th to consider the reports of accredited schools and the applications of new schools for accrediting.

The annual report of the Alexandria High School was considered by the committee and referred to the Southern Commission with the recommendation that the school, having met requirements, be continued on the accredited list.

With best wishes for the continued success of your school, I am,

Cordially yours,
Henry G. Ellis,
For the Virginia Committee.

The Virginia Committee is composed as follows:

R. E. Blackwell, President Randolph-Macon college, Ashland, Va.; W. R. Smithey, professor secondary education, University of Virginia; Henry G. Ellis, state supervisor secondary education, Richmond, Va.

Alexandria, Va., Nov. 14, 1921.

In answer to an article appearing in The Gazette under the heading of The Man About Town, with reference to the standard of the Alexandria High School we wish to state,—it is very plain to one who knows that, either the person who gave the information is hopelessly ignorant or maliciously untruthful and indications point to both.

In the past three years this school has entered no less than 50 pupils into the leading colleges and universities of the country and there is not a single case where a graduate has had to take an entrance examination.

It is on the accredited list of the University of Virginia—of the Southern Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges and on that of the Virginia State Department of Public Instruction.

We do not contradict the gentlemen's statement—that his sons had to take the entrance examinations at the University of Virginia but will add that the probable reason for that was failure to graduate from the Alexandria High School.

Persons wishing to knock some one in authority in school circles should state their grievance against the person or persons they have in mind, and sign their names rather than by attacking their own high school and crawling behind "The Man About Town" to do it.

(Signed) Faculty of A. H. S.
S. Marie Brauchler,
Secretary.

A Strong Bond Market

The rapidity with which certain new issues of bonds have been oversubscribed, and the fact that interest rates have shown, during the past few months, a decided tendency toward lower levels, can be taken as evidence of the trend of the bond market.

While bond prices are still low we recommend the purchase of those kinds of bonds that are recognized as the safest, as we believe that the investment demand will center on such issues for months to come.

We have selected for your consideration a list of secured mortgage bonds, essentially Southern, yielding 7 to 7 per cent.

Write for circular if you are interested in what the South can offer.

Commercial Supremacy

In the great commercial struggle that is close at hand America's fleet of merchant vessels will prove one of our most important assets, says Clarence Samuel King, secretary of the Atlantic Coast Shipbuilder Association, in the current issue of the Association bulletin.

There is considerable talk these days, says Mr. King, as to whether or not this country is going to successfully operate and add to its merchant marine. Representatives of foreign countries continue to speak depreciatingly of our maritime prospects. They say that our ambitious program cannot succeed because the developmnt of a successful mercantile marine is the result of evolution. Mr. King points out that Americans have never waited for old man evolution, and when that antiquated bundle of moth-eaten traditions, commercial superstitions and slow-acting convictions came hobbling along, he always found that the live American business man had come more than half way to meet him.

Things have changed since the old clipper days, says Mr. King. Today we have a great fleet of merchant vessels—trained seamen to operate them—progressive business leaders to finance and manage them, and a solid substantial background of ship building enterprise and efficiency which is an indispensable adjunct to the success of our maritime success.

Attention is called to the fact that other nations, while they are ready with a thousand reasons why we should not have a merchant marine, are nevertheless doing everything in their power to build up fleets of their own. The case of Germany is cited. She lost practically all of her great mercantile fleet at the close of the war, and yet, even in defeat she is feverishly acquiring ships in order that her goods may not be carried in foreign bottoms. Germany knows. She was one of the world's greatest traders in world markets. Her experience has taught her that a merchant fleet is indispensable if she would retrieve her wrecked fortunes.

And so it is with other countries who will soon be our commercial competitors, says Mr. King. They are planning to carry not only their own manufactured products but ours as well, if they can only persuade us that we don't need our merchant marine.

Mr. King is confident that the insidous representatives of rival commercial interests will be disappointed—for American products are going to be carried in American ships. We have the ships—American industry will see that those ships get American business.

A great commercial struggle is close at hand, says Mr. King. In Latin America, the Far East and in Europe lie vast markets for every conceivable kind of commodity. For seven years these markets have lain fallow When the trade revival comes, the nation with a smoothly-functioning mercantile fleet which will enable her to carry her own products free from the interference and control of competitors, will get her full share of the business America has such a fleet and American shipyards are prepared and ready to keep it in repair and add to it as necessary.

WITH THE WISHING FAIRY
by CORINNE
The Sea Fairy's Bed Is a Sponge.
"A Sponge," she said, "is an animal. A plantlike animal that is fastened to a rock."
"How in the world can an animal grow fastened to anything?" Pimzie was completely puzzled. "I thought only plants could be fastened—by their roots!"
"You would be astonished," Stella told him, "in the animal life of the sea, how many little creatures not only look like plants, such as the Portuguese Man-of-War, with all its colored streaming tendrils, but are attached, and continue to grow even though they can never move from the spot. And a Sponge is one of these."
"It is very strange, for it has neither mouth nor stomach."
"What!" exclaimed Snookums. "Then how does it live? Doesn't it eat?"
"Yes, indeed!" Stella answered. "It is constantly eating."
"How?" Snookums asked, and his funny little forehead was all wrinkled up in his effort to understand. Then he suddenly burst out laughing. "I think you are joking, Stella, dear."
"Indeed, I am not," the Fairy replied, "and if you will stop interrupting me with questions I'll tell you about it. First of all, I must tell you that a Sponge is entirely covered with a thin, slimy skin of a dark color. The skin is full of ever so many holes and each hole is the opening of a long gallery or canal. The Sponge is a mass of these galleries; through some it sucks in water and with the water hundreds of tiny animals, most of them too small to be seen. This water streams through the many passages and flows out of others, while the tiny animals are absorbed by the Sponge."
SPONGE.
"Sponges," she continued, "are of many different shapes. The one that Pearl uses as a bed is one of the most beautiful. It is known as 'Venus's Flower Basket Sponge,' and here is a picture of it.
"The Sponge that Humans use is only a skeleton of the real animal. This is what happens: Humans send divers deep down under the water to cut Sponges from the spots they are growing on. They then take them and bury them for a while under warm sand until all the animals' skin and flesh has rotted away and only the skeletons are left. These are then cleaned and are used by the Humans. Here is a picture of one of them. But," she added, "there are ever so many various kinds—soft ones, hard ones, fine ones, coarse ones, light ones and dark ones.
"There is even one that grows on a long, thin stem," Stella said as an afterthought, "and looks quite like a flower! To-morrow I shall tell you of the Sea Fan and other things about the Sea Fairy."

CALOMEL MAY TURN ON YOU NEXT TIME

Next Dose You Take May Salivate and Start World of Trouble

Calomel is mercury; quicksilver. It crashes into sour bile like dinamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it dosen't stare your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day: it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and cannot salivate.

LITTLE STORIES OF THE STREET
By The Man About Town

"What is the world coming to anyhow?" gruffly interrogated one of a group standing on the corner, "I see by this paper that there will be women on the jury which tries 'Fatty' Arbuckle." This man could look around him just a little and find out for himself that the world is not any worse than it was before the women took part in the management of the affairs of this old country of ours. He can just bet his life that if this world goes bad it will not be because of the women, but in spite of them. To look for the good being done by women he should investigate the various women's organizations of his own city. Investigate the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A., the Parent-Teachers' Association, the Playground Committee, and realize that in the sight of the law a woman is just as good as he is intellectually, if not in every way.

"Advertisements in any form are good, but do you know that there is one kind of an advertisement that people never forget? That advertisement is the treatment a customer gets when he walks into your store. Store service is what counts. I do not mean that you can get the volume of business by giving good service but you keep the trade you already have if you give the service you should. I send out circular letters, I do newspaper advertising and then back them with the best service that I can give." This is a story that was whispered to The Man About Town by one of the most successful merchants of the city. He has the right idea and if we mistake not it is the secret of his great sucess.

Thousands have seen it—the Arms Conference window of one of our leading merchants—but how many have really gotten the significance of it all? Is it really come? "And He shall judge among the nations ,and shall rebuke many people: and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruninghooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." In the window the Goddess of Liberty, enrobed in the American Flag, stands in the center, on her left is a pile of junked war implements, and on her right is the sword and plowshare. This is indeed "a timely window" as the originator asserts. Look at it the next time you pass it and try to get the meaning of it. (By the way, Mr. Diener's card writer says that the quotation used above is to be found in the 11th chapter of Isaiah, but our Bible records it in the 2nd chapter and 4th verse of that book.

On walking down King street yesterday The Man About Town spied a jovial looking individual, clad from head to foot in the good old out-of-doors costume of corduroy, who looked as if he had a story worth telling. "Beg pardon," timidly piped up The Man About Town. "Good afternoon" heartily returned the individual in question. "I am A. J. Payne, United States Game Warden in charge of the game on the Camp Humphrey reservation," and pulling back his coat he displayed his credentials in the form of a fine bronze badge. In answer to the question. "Much game?" he answered, "In all my life I have never seen so many rabbits or quite as many quail, but you cannot get any of them and it is my job to see that you don't. I have already caught one white man and one colored man this season and have chased two more into Pohick marsh. You can come down and hunt some reed birds in the creeks and marshes if you like, but don't put a foot on my 6,300 acre reservation with any malicious intentions toward my rabbits and quail." Mr. Payne is well own in Alexandria and those who know say that he always means what he says. So, Mr. Hunter, BEWARE.

Mr. Robert E. Thompson, of Halifax, one of Alexandria's popular insurance agents, says that, in his line, business is "picking up" all the time. But not like that of the man, whose business it was to pick up cigar stumps along the street, whose business was always "picking up" but never got any better.) He says that he used to sing this song but, for him, it is now out of date. His old time song:

Insurance has reduced my pay
To just one dollar four a day
A week's car fare amounts to one
My Hall bedroom, when day is done,
Requires the out-lay of a two
Each Sabbath eve when it is due.
This leaves me just two dollars whole
And twenty cents for my bank roll
From this large sum I pay for eats,
Must buy my clothes and fancy meats
Three meals a day for ten cents each,
An Insurance job is sure a peach.

Can any expert tell me now
To make a decent showing now.
On thirty cents for food and drinks
For laundry bills to pay my Chink.
To pay for soap, haircuts and shaves,
Beside the sum that I should save?
Advice, Advice, I humbly seek
How to live on five cents per week.

VETERANS' CLEAN-UP DRIVE

Comparatively few efforts were made to defraud the Government in the recent "Clean-up" drive conducted by the United States Veterans' Bureau in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia. Practically all of the new claims arising out of the drive, now nearly finished after a run of ten weeks, have reached the central office of the Veterans' Bureau in the Arlington Building in Washington. These cases have been checked against a master index and it is roughly estimated that possibly in five per cent of the cases new claims have been found to be duplicates.

There is very little chance of a former service man putting through a second claim for disability compensation when he marks it as an original claim. As soon as it reaches the central office of the Bureau it is checked first against his name and army serial number and then against his service record. He is also compelled to identify himself with his service record. When a duplicate claim comes in marked as an original the man making the claim, besides having it disallowed, lays himself open to a fraud charge.

In a number of cases claims have been improperly marked as a result of mistakes, but no case is known in which payment has ever been made in duplicate. Even in such cases mistakes would show up almost immediately in the auditing and compensation sections, and a refund would be exacted of the man receiving the double compensation.

Thousands of new claims have been executed in the field since the beginning of the "Clean-up" drive In addition to the work done by the squads that swing through the states in this district the interest of the former service men in their compensation, training, insurance and other rights from the governmen has been stimulated and a great many new cases are coming in through the eight sub-district offices recently established in this district.

TAKES CARE OF 5 CHILDREN

Mrs. Taylor's Sickness Ended by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Roxbury, Mass.—"I suffered continually with backache and was often despondent, had dizzy spells and at my monthly periods it was almost impossible to keep around at my work. Since my last baby came two years ago my back has been worse and no position I could get in would relieve it, and doctor's medicine did not help me. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have found great relief since using it. My back is much better and I can sleep well. I keep house and have the care of five children so my work is very trying and I am very thankful I have found the Compound such a help. I recommend it to my friends and if you wish to use this letter I am very glad to help any woman suffering as I was until I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. MAUDE E. TAYLOR, 5 St. James Place, Roxbury, Mass.

Backache is one of the most common symptoms of a displacement or derangement of the female system. No woman should make the mistake of trying to overcome it by heroic endurance, but profit by Mrs. Taylor's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The Gasoline That Delivers the Goods

Delivery service, with its innumerable stops and starts, puts motor fuel to a severe test, especially in cold weather. Unless the gasoline is quick firing, valuable time is frittered away every time the motor has to be started. The alternative of allowing it to idle every time a call is made means wasting a lot of gasoline.

But there are other qualities that are desirable in gasoline besides the "pep" that proper volatility assures. There must be sturdy pulling power for heavy grades, combined with big mileage per gallon. The motor fuel must burn up so completely that there is practically no half-burned residue to foul the moving parts of the motor and dilute the lubricating oil.

These properties of a well balanced motor fuel are all possessed by "Standard" Motor Gasoline. It is an improved article which leads other gasolines in every important quality that makes for efficient and economical operation.

Work with your engine, not against it. Give it "Standard" Motor Gasoline for power and Polarine Oil for lubrication.

ARGUMENTS FOR RICHMOND LOCATION ANSWERED BY ADVOCATES OF UNIVERSITY

(Second Series)

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 16.—Advocates of the University location for the single state-supported medical school have singled out the principal arguments for the Richmond location and have attempted to briefly refute them. Twelve of the leading assertions of the Richmond supporters have been answered in this way and this is the second of a series of articles dealing with these arguments.

Assertion 7.

Richmond advocates allege that the state needs more doctors than are now being graduated from the two schools.

Answer.

The Richmond advocates acknowledge that if the presnt state appropriation for medical education is taken from Richmond and given to the University MORE students can be graduated from the University than is the case at present, they also insist that if the state decided to center upon the University school the proprietary Richmond school will not acquiesce, but will break away, independently and continue with huge funds already in sight from charitable or religious bodies. They acknowledge that the state-owned school at the University plus the endowed school at Richmond, will, under these conditions, graduate more young doctors than would a single school at either Charlottesville or Richmond.

Assertion 8.

The Richmond advocates allege that the relations between medical teaching, pharmacal teaching and dental teaching are so extremely intimate that the medical department of Richmond cannot be separated from the dental and pharmacal departments of Richmond.

Answer.

The Richmond advocates acknowledge that Pharmacy and Dentistry are practically self-supporting in Richmond, moreover the ties between Pharmacal and Dental teaching in Richmond are never closer, and seldom as close as the ties, at the University, between medical teaching, collegiate teaching, and the sciences taught at the University. Moreover, the Medical students at the University acquire a very valuable asset from the atmosphere of a great University which cannot be paralleled in Richmond.

Assertion 9.

The Richmond advocates insist that dentistry and pharmacy must be taught in Richmond and that it will be impossible to teach them at the University.

Answer.

If it is true (as believed for centuries) that it is an advantage to a state to have a high percentage of citzens equipped through University teaching, it follows that the state will be better off if its pharmacists and dentists are trained at the state University. This is the position taken by the University authorities. The best advice that they have obtained convinces them that both dentistry and pharmacy can be well taught at the University; that pharmacy will be greatly benefited by the intimate contact with the University departments of chemistry, botany, biology, etc., that there will be abundant clinics for dentistry. Moreover, they find that the dental graduates who show up best before the examining boards are not the graduates of proprietary schools like Richmond, but the graduates of state University schools.

Assertion 10.

Richmond advocates haye completely failed to PROVE that it is NECESSARY to separate the medical school from the University, they have failed to PROVE that it will be ECONOMICAL, they have failed to PROVE that it will improve medical education, or the general welfare of the state.

Answer.

The University authorities insist that until such proof has been established it will be a tragic mistake to destroy a great state asset like the medical school at the University (with its state, national and international reputation; strong, vigorous and growing)—for a dubious and vaguely pictured advantage (which has in 50 years failed to materialize in Richmond).

Assertion 11.

The members of the Commission signing the Majority Report offer no solution to the question of the future fate of the University Hospital.

Answer.

The University authorities insist that this hospital must be closed if the Richmond propaganda succeeds because there will be no funds to support it; that this hospital is doing a life-saving work for a large and ever extending section of the state; that the cheapest way in which this hospitalization can be cared for is by combining the care of the sick with the teaching of the medical students. They also insist that Richmond will not suffer in this respect if the state school is centered at the University, as it is a recognized fact that every city must and does attend to its own medical needs.

Assertion 12.

The Richmond advocates failed to offer any ripening influence upon the students equivalent to the influence of University environment.

Answer.

The University authorities insist that University environment is a valuable and great formative influence in the life of a student and must not be sacrificed if it can be retained.

EXTENT AND REDUCTION OF THE CIVIL SERVICE

The United States Civil Service Commission today issued its semi-annual statement regarding the extent of the Federal executive civil service and reductions therein, as follows:

The Federal executive civil force in the District of Columbia was reduced by 11,694 employees during the year ended July 31, 1921, and by 38,895 during the period from November 11, 1918, to July 31, 1921. The reduction throughout the United States, including the District of Columbia, was 93,634 for the year ended July 31, 1921, and more than 300,000 during the period from November 11, 1918, to July 31, 1921. The reductions continue steadily, but now, of course, more slowly.

On June 30, 1916, there were 39,259 employees in the District of Columbia, and 400,539 in branches out side the District of Columbia, making the total on that date 439,798. On November 11, 1918, at the height of the war expansion, the number of employees in the District of Columbia was 117,760. Owing to rapid fluctuations at distant places of employment, it was found impracticable to compile strictly accurate figures for the force outside the District of Columbia during the war period. As near as can be estimated, the force outside the District of Columbia numbered approximately 800,000 on November 11, 1918. This is a conservative estimate; it is probably too low. Adding the number in the District of Columbia on that date, the approximate total number of employees on the date the armistice was signed was 917,760. On July 31, 1920, there were 90,559 Federal civil employees in the District of Columbia, making the total on that date 691,116. Veterans' Bureau Will Open Training Center

Washington, Nov. 14.—A training center for former service men being rehabilitated in this district by the United States Veterans' Bureau will be opened at Silver Spring, Md., within the next two weeks, it was announced this morning at the conference of the sub-district managers of the Fourth District now being held in Washington.

The new center will be the first attempt on a large scale to organize a completed center along general lines in this district and accommodations have been made for caring for 100 men. Approximately 65 students will be enrolled at Silver Springs when the schools are opened there on November 21 and the institution will be filled to capacity within a few weeks thereafter, it was announced at the conference, by men to be sent there from all parts of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, and the District of Columbia.

The Silver Springs center is located in Maryland, just over the border from the District of Columbia. It will be especially used at this time for trainees who are no longer hospital cases, but whose physical condition is not yet such as to warrant their being placed in schools and courses where they will have to live up to a rigorous discipline as to hours and study.

Considerable interest has been taken in the new center by Captain Albert E. Haan, manager of the Fourth District, who is resident of Maryland, and has made a number of inspections of the group of buildings there while they were being put into shape for reception of the trainees. Upon his return from the polls at Rockville today Captain Haan made a final inspection of the center and announced the opening of a new office of the Baltimore sub-district at Cumberland, Md. Up to this time there has been but one office in Maryland. It is planned to open an office that will care for the former service men in the western part of the state and along the Maryland-West Virginia line.

In connection with the opening of the Silver Springs training center it was announced that complete courses will be given trainees in cloctrical and machine shop work, leather working, agriculture, including horticulture and gardening, poultry and bee raising and academic and commercial courses along trade and industrial lines.

Red Cross Gives $310,000 to Aid 'Clean-Up' Drive

An appropriation of $310,000 for Red Cross work in connection with the "clean-up" campaign instituted by the Government to bring the claims of all disabled service men who are entitled to Federal aid before the proper government bureau for action, has been made by the American Red Cross. The Executive Committee of the American Red Cross in making the appropriation authorized the appropriation of $35,000 of this sum to the American Legion to defray the expense of the Legion representatives assigned to the various districts of the Veterans Bureau.

The remainder of the appropriation was authorized for apportionment among the several Divisions of the Red Cross for carrying on that part of the "clean-up" work that falls directly upon the Red Cross organization.

Young America Sends Vast Relief To Needy Abroad

Various relief projects of the Junior American Red Cross in European countries resulted in helping 237,000 destitute children during the last fiscal year, according to the annual report of the American Red Cross for that period. The growth of the activities of the Juniors abroad is manifested by a comparison which shows this figure is 200,000 larger than that of the previous fiscal year.

The National Children's Fund raised by school children, members of the Junior American Red Cross, was drawn upon for $420,557 for these projects. Receipts for the National Children's Fund during the last fiscal year totalled $155,317.

America Succors Russians

Food, clothing and medical relief costing $700,000 has been provided by the American Red Cross for the thousands of Russian refugees stranded last year in Constantinople and vicinity.

NOVEMBER

November ,from the Latin, "novem," ninth, gains its name from the fact that it was the ninth month in the old Roman year.

Under the Julian arrangement of the calendar November became the eleventh month of the year and to it was allotted 30 days.

November 11, in the Roman calendar, was held to mark the beginning of winter. The sacred banquet "epulum Jovis," was celebrated on the thirteenth.

When the Roman senate sought to rename the month in honor of Tiberius, he declined the honor, saying: "What would you do if you had thirteen Caesars?"

The Anglo-Saxon names for November were Windmonath (windmonth), and Blodmonath (bloodmonth).

Three presidents, Harding on the 2nd in 1865, Garfield on the 19th, 1831, and Polk on the 23rd, 1804, were born in November. President Chester A. Arthur died in November, on the 19th, in 1886.

Two holidays mark the month of November; Armistice day on the 11th, and Thanksgiving day, the last Thursday.

North Carolina ratified the Constitution of the United States November 21, 1789; North and South Dakota on the 2nd, Montana on the 8th, and Washington on the 11th in 1889, and Oklahoma on the 16th, 1907, were admitted to the Union in November.

The topaz, signifying fidelity and friendship, is the November birthstone.

SANTA CLAUS ABROAD

Santa Claus will have a dreary time of it in the devastated regions of Europe this winter so it has been decided to assist the brave old man by sending 10,000 Christmas boxes to the European children. The Junior Red Cross has the matter in hand and so far 8,000 boxes have been prepared and sent. Rag dolls are particularly in demand since there is no nationality about a rag doll—she is the same the world over and her blank soft face will look attractive to a European child as it would to a little Atlanta girl. Morover rag dolls are easy to pack, they neither crumple nor break and the best thing about them is that they are so easily made. The High School of Onancock Virginia made boxes of rag dolls itself—dolls with mitten shaped hands and wasp shaped waists and dresses made of simple, sheer material. A rag doll is not proud. She will wear almost anything. For the boys there are tops and marbles, games and dominoes—mittens and stockings, anything to delight a small masculine heart. The children range from six to fourteen years of age and nuts and hard candy may be included if they are sealed in a tin box. Competition on the boxes has been keen and so far Greenville, North Carolina, stands at the head of the list with the contribution of 1,000 boxes.

Taste is a matter of tobacco quality

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield are of finer quality, (and hence of better taste) than in any other cigarette at the price.
